The Simple, Secure Solution for Print, Copy and Fax Payments

The growing accessibility of public and university libraries, as well as the popularity of full self service business centers, has placed an emphasis on providing an easy and economical method of print, copy, and fax vending

Equitrac Pay Station is a comprehensive payment system designed for the education and retail markets. The product line combines revalue stations, which enable users to purchase cards and add value to their cards or account, and control terminals, which interface with output devices to pay for documents. Cash-accepting devices optionally support both bills and coin, and are equipped with locks and secure steel housings. The reusable, recyclable Value Cards are encoded with a high-security magnetic stripe that can only be read by Equitrac terminals.

Library and Education

Students, staff, faculty and public access patrons may purchase cards, add value to existing cards, make print/copy/fax purchases or obtain account balances. The cards can optionally be encoded with either units or cash value depending on the needs of your environment.

Business Service Center

Value Cards are limited to a pre-purchased amount and the system will be automatically configured to disable devices when maximum values are reached. The cards can then be re-encoded with new values, using the self-serve Pay Station card service center.

Pay Station products provide coin and bill payment options, magnetic stripe card support, smart card support and payment integration with your network print accounts.
